Roy Commission To Probe British Press Controlled By These Newspaper Peers

Visiting Toronto with Lord Camrose, above, one of London's Telegraph and other papers, used to comment on the alleged "money-muzzled press" charges made during House of Commons debate with led to authorization of a royal commission of inquiry.

Resolution calling for investigation of newspapers like the chain-owned by Lord Rothermere, above, was passed by 270 to 157 in British House of Commons.

British newspapers call the government investigation of the British press, ordered by parliament after a bitter debate, "sinister" and "intolerable." Lord Kemsley, seen above with Lady Kemsley, owns more than 20 newspapers, is blamed for "monopolistic" tendencies by inquiry supporters.

Time For Action, Not Words About Spain, U.N. Told

NEW YORK (AP)—Action by the United Nations resulting in a possible concerted break in diplomatic relations with Franco Spain was predicted today by many U.N. delegates.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Vice-Foreign Minister, expressed the sentiments of many delegations when he declared that "it is now time for action, not words" on the "accursed Spanish question."

The way for Assembly action was expected to be paved Monday when the Security Council meets to take up the Franco case again. At that time the council will decide whether to drop the Spanish issue from its agenda in order to permit Assembly discussion and action.

But Russia now is behind the move to place the case before the Assembly, thus removing any likelihood that the Soviet Union will block the proposal to drop the issue from the Council agenda.

This Council action must be taken before the Assembly can discuss the issue. Under the charter, any matter which is before the Council cannot be discussed by the Assembly simultaneously.

The fact that the Assembly voted unanimously Thursday to place the Franco case on its agenda practically rules that the Security Council will drop the issue.

The Slav bloc is demanding the harshest action against Spain. However, the Assembly's power is limited to making recommendations to the Security Council in this matter. But it could recommend to members that they break diplomatic relations with Franco Spain. Only 21 members of the United Nations now have diplomatic relations with the Franco government.

The Assembly also could make its recommendations direct to the Security Council. The Council then could direct members of the organization in the action to be taken.

NEW YORK (AP)—The fate of the million or so war refugees in European camps may be taken up today by the United Nations' General Assembly committee on social and humanitarian matters which begins meetings at the Lake Success branch of U.N. headquarters on Long Island.

The General Assembly wound up its plenary sessions late Thursday in a sudden burst of speed aided by unexpected collapse of opposition to acceptance of the 56-item draft agenda.

The subjects of refugees alone may cause considerable debate and Canada is particularly interested because the report before the committee was prepared by a subcommittee of the Economic and Social Council headed by Hon. Paul Martin, Secretary of State.

More particularly Canada is interested because it will be expected, along with other underdeveloped countries, to offer haven to a considerable number of the refugees.

M. J. Coldwell, leader of the C.C.F. and a member of the Canadian delegation, will be the main Canadian representative on the Social and Humanitarian

Lawyers Wind Up Pleas On Appeals To Privy Council

LONDON (CP)—Arguments for and against the Dominion government's proposal to abolish the right of appeal from Canada to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council were concluded today before seven law lords of the Privy Council.

The presiding judge and Lord Chancellor, Baron Jowitt, pronounced the hearing closed and reserved judgment.

The Privy Council hearing involved appeals by New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia against the Canadian Parliament's Bill 9, which would provide for abolition of appeals.

The Canadian government, Manitoba and Saskatchewan supported the measure.

Closing arguments were made by F. P. Varcoe, K.C., deputy Canadian Justice Minister, who appeared on behalf of the Attorney-General of Canada, and Hon. Charles Russell, London lawyer, appearing for the Attorneys-General of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The only speakers in rebuttal this afternoon were C. R. Magone, K.C., of Toronto, appearing for Ontario, and Wilfred Barton, London lawyer appearing for British Columbia.

Mr. Magone re-emphasized his earlier point that federal power to "establish a court of appeal" derived from the British North America Act meant "nothing more than that."

Mr. Varcoe had said earlier that "the people of Canada want an independent, self-sufficient judiciary," and declared that the Canadian Parliament's power to "legislate for good government of Canada overrides provincial rights of appeal to the Privy Council."

Mr. Varcoe told the seven law lords: "Speaking as a citizen of Canada I would say no topic is under more continuous discussion than this question of whether the Dominion of Canada is a self-governing, autonomous state with all the attributes of sovereignty—a complete and independent system of government."

"When Parliament decided that the public of Canada wants an independent and self-sufficient judiciary I submit that it is a matter of national concern and not a question of provincial administration of justice."

Viscount Simon interjected: "I can well understand the sentiment of people that the Dominion of Canada should have an independent judiciary. Nevertheless, there are those who speak for provinces of Canada who take opposite views."

Mr. Varcoe answered: "I do not know the sentiment in Parliament, but the sentiment of the people is definitely in favor of complete self-sufficiency of the judiciary. There is a natural desire to place Canada upon equality with other members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

British War Office plans recently were announced for transferring 100,000 of Gen. Anders' force into a resettlement corps functioning under British military law, making them in effect a part of the British army.

He answered the charge that the houses were not up to Victoria standards by saying that they had been designed by B.C. architects with Victoria's special needs in mind, and were fully the equal of any home being built in the same price-range in the city.

20 Fears Dead In Plane Crash

PARIS (Reuter)—At least 20 persons were believed to have been killed today when a transport aircraft crashed near St. Leger la Montagne in central France. Local police estimated casualties at between 20 and 25. Charred bodies of some of the victims were unidentifiable and it is believed there were no survivors.

Tacoma Strike Ends

Probe Ontario Death

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Police said today they were investigating the drowning early this morning of Allan Gray, 21, whose body, dressed in a Halloween costume, was recovered from the Cornwall Canal. A lockman said he saw Gray leap into the water about 4 a.m.

Foresee Riots

CARBO (Reuter)—All police leaves were canceled from today and the government let it be known precautions were being taken to prevent disturbances tomorrow, the 29th anniversary of the Balfour Declaration on Palestine. The Moslem Brotherhood has called for a strike for one hour from 9 to 10 tomorrow morning.

Man Lost In Coast Storm While Fisherman Here H Close Call

Ian Hamilton, 115 Caledonia Avenue, recuperating today after escaping with his life Thursday afternoon when his fishboat was driven ashore on Finlayson Point, off Beacon Hill Park, in a southwesterly gale which reached a peak velocity of 54 miles an hour and took the life of another fisherman off Prince Rupert.

Officials at the Pilotage Authority, Dallas Road, first discovered Hamilton was in trouble at 3.30 in the afternoon. Pilot Vessel No. 4, under Thomas Taylor, skipper, and E. H. Sweeney, head of the pilot office, made three attempts to prevent Hamilton's craft, the 27-foot Lady Luck from going ashore, but, though a line was put aboard the Lady Luck, Hamilton was unable to secure it.

By 4, the fishboat had crashed onto the rocks on Finlayson Point and Hamilton had managed to escape to safety over the rocks. The Lady Luck split in two and today was a total wreck. Some gear may be salvageable and hopes were expressed the engine might be regained.

Hamilton got into difficulties when his engine failed and the gale caught his boat and drove it toward the point. Hamilton managed to get the engine restarted a number of times, but it continued to fail.

Injuries And Property Damage By 'Bombs' Mark Greater Victoria Halloween Celebrations

Greater Victoria was reeling one of its most hectic Halloween celebrations on record yesterday when property damage done by home-made bombs brought four boys being injured in two other explosions, numerous cases of fences being smashed over, gates stolen, cars and windows smashed.

Thousands of youngsters spent their night of the year at school and house parties organized by Parent-Teacher associations and community groups to keep them off the streets.

Trouble was believed caused by a few, and most of them only beyond the "youngster" crowd. Their activities were confined to districts of the city.

At Saanich, a quiet night enjoyed although it was in districts that the "casualty" occurred.

BOYS HURT

Three of the boys were injured when they received shrapnel cuts when a bomb was exploded in a coffee shop on St. Road. They were Ronald, 15, 2867 Epsom Drive; and Coles, 15, 68 Gorge Road, and Gerald Roberts, 16, 16 Auto Court. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where their conditions were reported to be good.

Mr. Bryan Reid, 3922 Cedar Road, lost a finger when a bomb exploded in Saanich, but was reported to be in good condition at St. Joseph's. Bombs were believed to have been home-made, as were cakes which did considerable property damage in Oak Bay. In some instances they were used to block streets and sidewalks.

A dozen or more gates were on the "missing list" this morning in various parts of the city, and a few complaints were received by police from car-owners who found the tires on their autos deflated.

Tailors Hopeful More Suits Will End Panic Buying

Tailors removing the "priority only" signs from suits, and preparing to sell them to civilians, expressed the hope today that the resulting increase in available stocks will bring panic buying to an end.

"Panic buying itself is one of the chief causes of the shortage, not only in suits but in other commodities," said one retailer. "People buy more than they need, and more than they normally would, of commodities mentioned as being in short supply."

Actually, this clothier said, sales of clothing are probably greater now than before the war. But a supply of clothes that would have taken a month to sell before the war is now being sold in less than a day, when word spreads that it is available.

WINDOWS SOAPED

There were hundreds of other store windows "soaped" and window washers were busy today. The hunt for the mythical "Kilroy" was the most widely-used inscription by the mischievous soap wielders. "Kilroy Was Here" was scrawled around the district.

A small car was bounced onto the sidewalk near the Oak Bay Municipal Hall. On the windshield was soaped the slogan "Kilroy Was Here."

Another small car was turned on its side at Fairfield Road and Harbinger Avenue.

Other instances of cars being moved onto sidewalks were reported. Also three cars were stolen as well as six bicycles.

Several windows were broken in town and a few street lights. Two instances of lumber piles being pushed over were reported as well. A few manhole and drain coverings were removed, and red lamps on construction projects disappeared.

A fire hose was turned on in the entrance of the Stobart Building, Yates Street, but was turned off before any damage was done.

The city fire department was the only fire-fighting force to be bothered.

"And it wasn't too bad," firemen reported.

They received eight false alarms and extinguished two fires attributed to Halloween. One was in a city tool wagon near Victoria West Park. A jack-o-lantern set fire to curtains at 731 Princess Avenue in the other. Damage was not serious in either case.

WANT INDIGNATION MEETING

Considerable damage was done to property on Beach Road where residents were speaking this morning of holding an "indignation meeting" to ensure against a recurrence next Halloween. In these cases fences were torn down and garages trampled with many plants and shrubs destroyed.

In Fairfield district big chunks of broken concrete coping were strewn over the street and in gardens at Richardson Street and Linden Avenue.

Also several fences were torn down there as well as in James

Ration Canned Milk In Victoria And South Of Island

The southern portion of Vancouver Island, including the whole of Greater Victoria has been included in the "restricted areas" where priority on the sale of evaporated milk is by coupon only. C. H. Booth, local representative of the Wartime Price and Trade Board, said today.

The area includes Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Saanich, and the Saanich peninsula, and all Vancouver Island south of the boundary line of the E. and N. Railway Company land grant, from Goldstream to the West Coast. This cuts across the foot of the Malahat to the West Coast, approximately five to six miles north of Sooke.

The move to extend the restricted areas, is designed, Mr. Booth explained, to provide more evaporated milk for infants, invalids and others in remote districts.

Those districts where supplies of fresh milk are sufficient to meet necessary needs are designated as restricted areas by Ottawa. Most areas of Ontario and Quebec, except the northern portions, are in this classification, as well as principal cities and towns of the western and Maritime Provinces.

Coupons will be issued from the local ration office or from local ration boards at the City Hall, Saanich Municipal Hall or Esquimalt, for children under two years of age. Others can obtain a medical certificate, for people living in remote districts where fluid milk is not available.

Mr. Booth said

the question of whether or not Housing Enterprises Ltd. will be permitted to buy the 104 lots in the northern part of the city and proceed with its project to build rental homes there is still hanging fire.

Today the business, trade and re-establishment committee, under the chairmanship of Ald. H. M. Diggon in the absence of Ald. B. J. Gadsden, held another meeting which was attended by D. S. Keast and W. L. Inglis, representatives of the company.

M. P. Paine also attended the meeting as a representative of local builders who have been instrumental in raising the protest against the project because they claimed it would take essential building materials in short supply from local builders.

After hearing Mr. Keast and Mr. Inglis, who assured the

Mr. Keast also insisted that the materials being used for the 104 houses would in no way touch the local quota because their purchase had been arranged on a national basis.

He answered the charge that the houses were not up to Victoria standards by saying that they had been designed by B.C. architects with Victoria's special needs in mind, and were fully the equal of any home being built in the same price-range in the city.

Polish Commander Leaving Italy

BRENNER PASS, Italy (AP)—Lt. Gen. Vladyslaw Anders, commander of the Polish 2nd Corps in Italy, left Thursday night for Britain. With his departure, the Polish Corps is dissolved, and only a liquidation unit remains for administrative purposes.

British War Office plans recently were announced for transferring 100,000 of Gen. Anders' force into a resettlement corps functioning under British military law, making them in effect a part of the British army.

Science On Verge Of Producing Memory Machine, Electric Brain

LONDON (CP)—Admiral Viscount Mountbatten told the 21st annual dinner of the British Institute of Radio Engineers Thursday night that science is on the verge of producing an electronic brain and a memory machine.

Lord Mountbatten, Supreme Allied Commander in Southeast Asia during the war, once was a wireless specialist in the Royal Navy.

ENIAC—the initials denoting one machine in this field—already solves complicated mathematical problems in a few seconds, he said, and there are machines actually in use which "can exercise a degree of memory."

"The reference library of the future will be a kind of memory machine the size of a large desk," he said.

Radio tubes would be the controlling factors in the machine, Lord Mountbatten said.

"The stage is set for the most Welshian development of all."

"It is considered possible to evolve an electronic brain which will perform functions analogous to those at present undertaken by the semi-automatic portion of the human brain."

Lord Mountbatten said machines now are being designed capable of exercising some choice and judgment. "One could even be made to play a rather mediocre game of chess."

Victoria Company Sells Rights For United States Production

W. R. C. Cocke Jr. of Seattle, president of a newly-formed U.S. company, Felt & Textiles of America, said today his firm has purchased the U.S. manufacturing rights of "feltex" and other felt products from Felt & Textiles of Canada Ltd., Victoria firm establishing a factory in the former woolen mills building.

The sum involved was not disclosed by Mr. Cocke.

Mr. Cocke said the American company would establish a factory, probably in San Francisco but possibly in Seattle, in which the felt products would be made.

Original paid-in capital of Felt & Textiles of America was $10,000, which has been used for an economic survey of the markets in the U.S., Mr. Cocke said. The firm is seeking to raise $250,000 to establish a plant.

Mr. Cocke is in Victoria to study production plans at the Victoria plant. He has also discussed production with officials of the Australian company which had sold patents on manufacturing process to Felt & Textiles of Canada Ltd.

manufacture of the products by an eastern firm until it can get its west coast factory established and operating, Mr. Cocke reported. He hopes to have the products on the market within five months.

SAME TRADE NAME

The company plans to adopt the same trade name as the Canadian firm may use rather than use the Australian trade name "feltex."

Besides the manufacture of floor coverings of felt, the company reports a wide market for other felts in production of automobiles, machinery, insulators, slippers, furniture manufacturing and other industries. First felts of the American company will probably go to the automobile industry in Detroit.

Only other U.S. west coast manufacturer of felts is a firm in Los Angeles which sends the bulk of its products to Detroit car-making firms, Mr. Cocke said.

One of the largest floor covering distributors of the coast has agreed to handle distribution of Felt & Textiles of America products, he said, while the project of the company had been adopted by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

The American company, he said, would probably secure wool, used exclusively in the manufacture of its products, from Australia.

"We hope this will form the nucleus of textile industry on the west coast," he said, adding the firm may gradually go into the manufacture of other textile products.

PROHIBITIVE DUTIES

Duties on the Victoria-made products of Felt and Textiles of Canada Ltd. would have been prohibitive in the United States, said Mr. Cocke. It was for that reason that the firm was formed to manufacture the products there.

Although not a subsidiary of Felt and Textiles of Canada Ltd., the U.S. firm will work in close co-operation with the Victoria company, he said.

Felt and Textiles of America may arrange for temporary

Broken Windows, Street Lights Mark Canada's Hallowe'en 'Fun'

By Canadian Press

Street lights were smashed in Vancouver and Winnipeg, windows were smashed in Toronto and odd pieces of movable property were overturned or transported, but generally municipal police staffs across the country today reported it was a quiet Hallowe'en.

There were no large-scale disturbances and no deaths directly attributable to the annual celebration of All Hallow's Eve, thanks largely to an unprecedented number of organized parties and parades throughout the Dominion. Celebrants were out in large numbers, but the damage was comparatively minor.

ROAD BLOCKS REMOVED

This year the most uproarious celebrations appear to have taken place in Vancouver. There hundreds of street lights were smashed and police broke up at least 50 extemporaneous road blocks. An epidemic of window-smashing broke out in Winnipeg. At Dartmouth, N.S., nine were arrested for illegal possession of liquor, and another man for loitering.

Toronto police and fire departments, relaxing in the early hours today, reported it had been an "unusually quiet night."

A typical Hallowe'en prank had tragic results at Cooksville, near Toronto, when the small gift shop operated by Mrs. Elizabeth Rolling was pushed off its foundations and her small stock of gifts smashed. The damage was between $150 and $200.

From coast to coast, however, the general picture was one of comparatively harmless pranks. Garbage cans and fences came in for juvenile attention, street car trolleys were pulled off wires, false alarms were rung in to fire departments.

Apart from the smashed windows, it was quiet in Winnipeg, with a record low of only four or five false fire alarms. A few lights were broken in Brandon, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and Regina were orderly.

VIOLENCE IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hallowe'en, traditionally a night of comparatively harmless pranks, turned into a nightmare of hoodlumism in Los Angeles, police reported.

"The most serious situation in years," the sheriff's office described it, while police were swamped with telephone calls.

Some of the more violent outbreaks reported were the firing of shots into the windows of homes, igniting parked automobiles with gasoline, hurling of stench bombs, the breaking of thousands of windows and the splattering of homes and automobiles with paint.

African Colonies Not Exploited, Says Sir Andrew Jones

Trusteeship, involving equal regard for the best interests of the inhabitants of colonies and the world at large, is the principle underlying Britain's system of rule in its tropical dependencies, Sir Andrew Jones, head of the United Kingdom Food Commission in Canada, said Thursday at a joint luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce at the Empress Hotel.

Sir Andrew said British administration of colonies had been criticized on grounds that it was imperialistic and that its main object was exploitation of territories and peoples. He denied both contentions.

Contrary to general belief, he said, West Africa was "a country whose people have emerged from the eerie forest of barbarism into the open sunlit plains of civilization." More progress had been made in 30 years than ever could have been anticipated. Such things as ritual murders had not disappeared entirely, but public opinion throughout West Africa was antagonistic to these remnants of old tribal beliefs.

Two obligations implicit in trusteeship were the safeguarding of the estate of the ward, and the development of the estate as far as its revenue permitted, Sir Andrew said. Under the British system the large area of West Africa had been pacified, a boon to the natives, and in 1940, Britain had exceeded the second obligation by making $500,000,000 available for colonial development, through the Colonial Welfare and Development Fund.

"That, I suggest, is the antithesis of exploitation," Sir Andrew said. He also pointed out that Britain allowed all countries free access to trade with the dependencies.

"I do not admit for one moment that we have been guilty of exploitation, in its bad sense, during the past 30 years," he declared.

Sir Andrew said Britain was taking every step, as far as education permitted, to give Africans the opportunity to take the responsibility for their own government.

"No post in the British service in West Africa other than those of governor and chief secretary are closed to Africans," he said. Imperialism was a term used glibly, "as 'parity prices' has been used recently in Canada," Sir Andrew said.

"I think we all profoundly believe the world is the better for the emergence and continuation of the British Commonwealth and British Empire," he added. "If our imperialism means keeping strong the bonds which keep together the British Empire, then I am proud to be called an imperialist."

Officials Praise

Victoria and Trans-Canada Airlines officials at Patricia Bay Thursday greeted Seattle officials here at a luncheon given by Mayor Percy. Left to right: M. B. Mitchell, president of the Seattle City Council, representing Mayor William F. Thompson, C.B.E., Director of Public Relations, C.N.R., and T.C.A. Montreal.

Compliments and well-wishes to Trans-Canada Airlines were expressed by officials of Greater Victoria and Seattle at a luncheon meeting given by Mayor Percy E. George in the Empress Hotel Thursday afternoon to mark the opening today of a daily passenger service between here and Seattle.

Mayor George spoke of the previous lack of air transport between Victoria and Seattle as a "missing link" and said he was happy that Canada's national airline was to be the one which would make that link. The Pacific northwest was on the eve of great expansion and T.C.A.'s new endeavor was aiding it. He expressed his appreciation of the problems T.C.A. had overcome to put in the new service.

In a telegram to the meeting, H. J. Symington, T.C.A. president, expressed the hope that "the new operation will be a benefit to the City of Victoria and to B.C., and that the service and patronage will be but the beginning of a growing and popular connection between these two neighboring countries."

M. B. Mitchell, president of the Seattle City Council, said the new service meant Victoria was no longer an island, but was now a focal point for all transcontinental airlines, both Canadian and U.S.

Lambrick Will Not Seek Re-election

Reeve A. G. Lambrick of Saanich announced Thursday he will not seek re-election in the December municipal elections.

The reeve said he felt the position called for full-time attention, and because of personal duties he was not able to give the time it required.

"That is all I have to say," he said.

This leaves the field open in the election of a chief magistrate for the municipality. No one has announced intention of seeking the office.

The reeve has served on the Saanich council for seven years. In Ward Four Councillor Geo. Austin has also announced he will not seek re-election. His announcement was followed by one from Edwin P. Cummins, a carpenter, North Road, that he would ask ratepayers in the ward to name him their representative.

B.C. Minister of Trade and Industry Leslie Eyres, representing Premier John Hart, told the meeting he believed B.C. had something to which those across the border could come.

Col. W. D. Lamport, manager of the Port of Seattle and member of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, extended to T.C.A. all wishes for success and looked forward to T.C.A. being housed with other airlines at Seattle's completed airport. He hoped the feeling of mutual confidence and understanding between the two countries would never be diminished.

J. H. Tudhope, T.C.A. operations manager, Winnipeg, was happy to see a service inaugurated to which T.C.A. had so long looked forward.

K. C. Burns, T.C.A. district traffic manager, said he felt the new service would strengthen the bonds of friendship which existed between the two countries and two cities.

R. L. Williams, city traffic manager, Victoria, looked to providing a good service between the cities.

J. A. Wilson, T.C.A. director said he felt that in T.C.A. pattern in the new service, it was for what the company had not started out to do in 1937... in a real transcontinental service.

Stores May Soon Have Corned Beef

Hope that canned corned beef may soon appear again on store shelves, after being absent since Sept. 1942, was held out in the latest issue of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Food Bulletin.

The item stated that in Sept. 1942 the government took over the country's entire supply of canned corned beef for the army and other priority users. At that time wholesalers and retailers were required to surrender their stocks and it was an offence for them to have any on hand for sale.

To purpose of the order has now been served, it was explained, and some stocks of canned corned beef may soon be released by War Assets Corporation.

This leaves the field open in the election of a chief magistrate for the municipality. No one has announced intention of seeking the office.

The reeve has served on the Saanich council for seven years. In Ward Four Councillor Geo. Austin has also announced he will not seek re-election. His announcement was followed by one from Edwin P. Cummins, a carpenter, North Road, that he would ask ratepayers in the ward to name him their representative.

Labor-Management Committees Up To Settle Disputes

The setting up of man-labor committees to keep in with each side's problems, dissatisfaction and on to straighten them out, were strikes or lockouts called, was advocated by Maj. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P., in a speech to the Kinsmen Thursday night.

The federal member of parliament was of the way to settle industrial disputes. However, he was of the opinion that Canadian strikes had been because of a genuine of the part of the workers to better living conditions. Nevertheless, the strikes had caused considerable loss in the year when people were crying out for more goods.

Mr. Varcoe opened the Dominion government's case in defence of Parliament's right to abolish appeals to the Privy Council.

The issue concerns the validity of the federal government's proposed "Bill 9," which would abolish the right of appeal.

The Dominion government, Manitoba and Saskatchewan support the measure. New Brunswick, Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia are opposed.

Police are investigating a story that a car drew up to the building shortly before the explosion and a man carrying a suitcase entered the building, the official said.

THE CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

NEXT TUESDAY'S CONGRESSIONAL elections in the United States will be watched with profound interest by Canadians and other peoples of the world—largely because upon the division of political strength in the two Houses will depend substantially the future course of our neighbor's national and foreign policy. This is not to argue, however, that if the 80th Congress should be hostile to the executive—with the lower chamber dominated by a Republican majority, for example, and a Senate with only a few administration votes to spare, if any—an entirely new outlook on world affairs would develop on Capitol Hill. The by-partisan arrangement whose foundations Mr. Cordell Hull laid three years ago, plus the extensive American commitments abroad, should be proof against any such dangerous disturbance. But the fact remains that if the public should repudiate Mr. Truman by electing a Republican Congress, or only a majority to the House of Representatives, his next two years of office might produce a similar condition which several presidents have had to face in the past—a state of political war between the legislative and executive branches of the government. Taft, Wilson, and Hoover knew how this condition bedeviled their respective administrations in their final years of office.

It is understood, of course, that next Tuesday's polling is to elect the whole of the 435 members of the House of Representatives and one-third—or 32—of the 96 members of the Senate. When the 79th Congress finished its business the Democrats held 241 seats of the lower chamber, 218 being a majority. In the event of their loss of 25 seats, therefore, they will lose their control. Various polls and private surveys indicate that the Republicans may win the requisite number to acquire domination of the House of Representatives for the first time since 1933. The standing in the Senate is 56 Democrats, 39 Republicans, and one Progressive. Hopes among the anti-administration forces are predicting that the swing in their favor is so substantial that even control of the Senate is likely to be snatched from the Democrats. While this latter prospect is discounted in quarters judged best able to evaluate the trend of the campaign, one element which is looking into the crystal ball suggests that Mr. Truman's hesitancy, lack of courage, and executive inexperience will count against him with a somewhat confused public. The world will know all about it quite early next Wednesday morning.

Obviously the Democrats contemplate Republican control of the House of Representatives with more than a modicum of discomfort. With Republicans in possession of a majority, it would be their privilege to nominate their candidate for Speaker, that being the practice; and this official enjoys wide powers. The dominant party not only names the chairmen of all important committees; he also sees to it that he has a majority representation on each of them. What a Republican House would do with the government's record, by way of investigations, inquiries into its conduct of the war, and so on, is an aspect of speculation about the fate of the administration's forces next Tuesday which is better understood than described. It might conceivably have a direct bearing on the political events in 1948—the next presidential election. As others have done before him, however, Mr. Truman will, to use the famous Asquithian expression, "wait and see." He is probably saying that sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

ITS MERITS PROVED

ON THE BASIS OF CANADA SAVINGS Bond sales to date, it is apparent that citizens of this Dominion wish to continue the habits of thrift stimulated during the war years by Victory Loan campaigns. The fact that $257,947,600 worth of the new securities already have been purchased proves the point and answers any question which might have remained in the official mind regarding the merits of a postwar plan to provide facilities for systematic saving.

Hon. J. L. Halsey, Minister of Finance, has explained to the public that the Canada Savings Bond would have justified itself if sales had reached $200,000,000. That total has been exceeded by more than 25 per cent and will be increased in the weeks to come. Even a superficial analysis of the response from the public indicates the merits of the scheme. It discloses not only a desire on the individual's part to create a nest egg to be used when prosperity may not be so general, but a level-headed appreciation of the course to be followed to keep Canadian economy on a sound basis. More Canadians today have more money in their pockets than they have ever had before. At the same time, they want commodities that are in short supply. They know that sufficient of the necessities exist to protect them from serious hardship—the scarcity of housing not withstanding. And they realize that the release of their savings in an orgy of competitive buying would unshackle the forces of inflation that have been kept under control to a very large degree.

Few indices could prove the stability of the average citizen better than this common-sense use of money. In its way it is a manifestation of patriotism, not of a flamboyant character, but of that very practical nature which refuses to permit the deterioration of domestic economy by yielding to the impulse to satisfy appetites for scarce goods at any price. Canadians can congratulate themselves on their adoption of this clear-sighted policy.

THE REFUGEES

THE SYMPATHIES OF ALL HUMANITARIAN peoples are aroused by the plight of hundreds of thousands of war refugees in Europe. Wherever men of good will exist, there is a desire to relieve their distress, to give constructive point to their lives, and to avoid the waste in potential development that their present status entails. Sustained by a form of charity, their immediate purpose in life is to remain alive. Under such conditions deterioration can scarcely be avoided. For them the higher aspirations are mere abstracts. Until they can again take root in some home they remain a liability to the more fortunate.

It is natural that the United Nations General Assembly committee on social and humanitarian matters, meeting today at Lake Success, should turn its eyes to the spacious countries of the New World as potential havens for these dispossessed. But it would be a matter of over-simplification to suggest that their uncounted numbers be siphoned from the overcrowded, poor and devastated regions of Europe and dumped in this hemisphere. Each nation feels its first obligation to its own people. None is ready to permit an influx of aliens who might be unassimilable and who might tend to impoverish the state to which they are admitted. There is, nevertheless, room here in Canada, in the United States, and in Latin America for many who would become useful citizens of the New World.

Tremendous complexities face the committee which seeks a generous and practical solution for the problem. But none can ignore the fact that more than a humane factor is involved. While thousands are reduced to a standard which is little more than subsistence in Europe alone—without regard to the millions in an even more aggravated condition in Asia—the world can never be truly healthy. The time is long past when isolation can eliminate the dangers which they pose.

SCHOLARSHIP AND FRIENDSHIP

TWO EVENTS OF LAST WEEK, WHILE relatively unimportant, nevertheless offer some slight encouragement in the field of international relations. The Kosciuszko Foundation launched a Books for Poland campaign from its New York headquarters. At the same time, a young American professor was en route to Poland to teach English at the University of Cracow, while two Polish students were on their way to this continent, where the girl will enroll at Vassar and the young man at the University of Wisconsin. These journeys marked the resumption of the Kosciuszko Foundation's exchange scholarships. The book collection drive, which had sent contributions to the Polish university-in-exile at the University of Edinburgh during the war, will now seek to help replenish the war-devastated libraries of Poland.

There is a temptation to enlarge upon the importance of this small beginning. These scholars, or more that will follow them to both countries, will not affect the problems of the moment. They will settle no boundary disputes, nor will they reconcile differences of ideology. But surely there is hope in the very spirit that prompted this movement of scholars and books. It cannot be said that scholarship has no politics. Science and arts are somewhat colored by their surroundings. Yet there is an understanding and sympathy among their practitioners which is quite apart from the quarrels of diplomats and statesmen. Those who go to study or teach in foreign countries are above the average in intelligence. They are likely to be alert and observant, and less susceptible to the abiding prejudices of ignorance. Their stay in foreign lands is long enough to permit them to become part of their new surroundings, to appreciate new problems and accomplishments, and to become friends with new acquaintances and the new country.

The world today needs this type of understanding more than ever. It needs a free and frequent exchange of scholars between many more countries. These exchanges are instigated by people, not governments; people who are interested and eager to understand one another and be friendly. Perhaps among the young scholars of today are some of the national leaders of tomorrow. Perhaps they will bring to their future tasks of leadership the fruits of that interest and eagerness. At least the possibility is worth encouragement and assistance.

THE NETTLE AMONG THE BIG THREE

ON THE QUESTION of the military forces which the Big Three are maintaining in foreign countries we have an unusual opportunity to make things much worse or to begin making them considerably better. It depends at the outset on how the question is put. The fact is that all of the Big Three have armed forces today in places where they did not have them in 1939. They are not only in Germany and Japan but in the places which the Axis had conquered and was then compelled to evacuate. They are in Poland, Austria and Yugoslavia, in Italy and the Italian empire, Greece and Indonesia, in Manchuria, Korea, North China and the former Japanese island empire in the Pacific. They are where they are by agreements among the Big Three made during the war under their common strategic plan for winning the war. But since there is no common diplomatic plan for the settlement of the war, these forces are a constant cause of conflict, threat, suspicion and embarrassment. They are the nettle which statesmen will have to grasp if they are to make any progress towards a workable settlement among the great powers.

THUS FAR, HOWEVER, no one of the Big Three has been willing to deal with the situation as a whole. While many noble words have been uttered about dividing one world into rival blocs, none of the statesmen who are attempting to make peace has yet taken the position that there can be no settlement in one of the three spheres of military influence except as part of a general settlement in all of them. On the contrary, each has sought to consolidate its position in its own sphere and to interfere in some other sphere.

All have used either the formal veto or its equivalent to avoid a negotiation which would treat each of the spheres as one element of the whole world-wide distribution of power. Thus far they have all sought separate settlements in some one of the spheres, and this is perhaps the final and controlling reason why there is as yet not even the beginning, not even the project, not even the idea, of a general settlement, and why peace-making has degenerated into a competition for advantage in the event of a war.

ALL THREE OF THE big powers have selected some partial and special aspect of the military situation and have exploited it for their own special and separate ends.

Thus the Soviet Union has asked the Security Council to compel the members to tell publicly "in what places on the territory of the United Nations or other states, not including ex-enemy territories, and in what numbers the armed forces of other United Nations are situated," "at what places in the above mentioned territories air or sea bases are established and what is the size of the garrison of these bases."

This would oblige the Soviet Union to disclose its military position in Poland, Yugoslavia, in Czechoslovakia, in Iran, and perhaps in Austria, but not in Germany, in Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, or in Korea, and perhaps not in Outer Mongolia. It would oblige the British to disclose their military position in Greece and in the Arab states and in Indonesia, but not in Germany, Italy, or in the Italian colonial empire. It would oblige the United States to disclose its military position in China, the Philippines and Panama, but not in Japan, Germany, or the Pacific islands.

THE PROPOSAL is, obviously, a rather poor attempt to be too smart. It ignores the real problem which arises from the fact that the world is strategically one, even if it is politically disunited, and, therefore, it is the balance of all the forces, not the size of one force separately, which matters. The Soviet proposal was designed to embarrass the British, and in less degree the United States, not to advance a settlement. It is not an act of statesmanship but a device of propaganda and psychological warfare.

But the United States also has tried to deal with this question partially and without seeking a general settlement. A controlling reason why a year of peace-making has been dedicated to the satellites in the Russian orbit is the hope, quite vain as the event has shown, that treaties of peace with the satellites would compel the Red Army to retire from Eastern Europe. At the same time the U.S. has held that a settlement of the Italian and other colonial territories could wait, and has not been ready for a general negotiation about the islands in the Pacific which she conquered, and may wish to annex or at least to hold on to.

IF EVER AND whenever we resume genuine diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, and get down to the realities, we shall have to begin our serious discussion where Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin left off: with an examination of the distribution of power among the Big Three. For the arguments by Messrs. Bevin, Molotov and Byrnes have dealt not only with the periphery of Europe but with the symptoms rather than the actualities of the trouble among the Big Three. They have not dealt with the substance of their relationships as a genuine diplomatic negotiation would have to.

The day will come, however, when the Big Three will not merely play power politics but will be compelled to negotiate about the distribution of their power. Then we shall discuss in one discussion, and in their bearing upon one another, the Red Army in Eastern Europe and in Eastern Asia, the British and the American armies, fleets, air forces and atomic weapons in Europe, in the Middle East and the Far East. That will be the beginning of the real peace conference. Then we shall be seeking, as peace-makers must, an equilibrium of power as the foundation of a general settlement of the war, and of the United Nations as the organized effort of mankind.

Psychiatry, Too, Might Backfire

By JAMES THRASHER

PSYCHIATRISTS keep insisting that what this sick world needs is a large dose of their medicine. And we've been inclined to agree with the general idea, whatever its practical difficulties.

After all, maybe our nervous, contentious, jittery world, with all its political tensions, is only reflecting the nerves and jitters of millions of its citizens. Cure the individual psychoses and, who knows, perhaps the world psychoses would be licked.

Thus we thought. But our conversion has been stymied by reading some words of wisdom spoken at the American Psychological Association's 54th meeting in Philadelphia. There the delegates were, faced with the challenging opportunity of promoting world peace by promoting mental and emotional health. But what did they say to each other in the hour of crisis? Here are some samples.

A lady psychiatrist from Detroit said that children of the middle classes suck their thumbs more than children of the poor.

A lady psychiatrist from California—one of the few adults who speak and understand bobby-sox English—said that teen-agers' double talk not only serves as a means of mystic communication but is also used "to release tensions, bolster the ego and channel aggression."

A NEW YORK psychiatrist (male) announced the startling discovery, a year after the war, that heroes get scared, too.

Another New Yorker said that people ought to go to more prize fights to release war-born aggressiveness and cut down crime. So, aided by these pearls of wisdom, let us construct a model citizen for our brave new psychoanalyzed world, and see what happens. Our citizen is born in a tenement, and shows an early disinclination for thumb-sucking. But his class-conscious mother fixes that by baiting the thumb from the family's meagre store of sugar (over protest of the old man, who likes two spoons in his coffee), thus assuring that her little one will present an outward appearance of middle-class affluence to the neighbors. In young manhood he learns the language which brings brimming self-confidence and freedom from tensions. He calls his father a square, his mother a drip, and has christened little sister Moul' tsemet.

WITH aggression properly channelled through slang, he goes to college intent on playing football. But in his first game he is petrified by fright. When the centre snags him the ball he takes one look at the oncoming tacklers and rushes madly toward the wrong goal-line. Cheering throngs pour out of the stands and beat him away on their shoulders. For they, being psychologically sheep, also know that fright is a true and typical mark of the hero.

A grave crisis marks his mature life. He feels an urge for crime. But he knows the remedy—a boxing match. Unfortunately, he chooses a recent Joe Louis fight, for which he pays $100 for a ticket. And, unfortunately, the psychiatric prescription doesn't work. As he watches the waltzing gladiators he becomes a bundle of tension and aggressiveness, with a yen for mayhem.

The last we see of him he has torn off one of the ring posts and is chasing Promoter Mike Jacobs up the aisle with it.

Letters To The Editor

OUR SENIOR CITIZENS

This is an appeal on behalf of the senior citizens of Victoria who, through circumstances, find themselves on the old-age pension. Many of them, and their relatives live in miserable, cold rooms, eking out an existence on one dollar a day which—according to experts—works out at 33 cents for meals, 33 cents for shelter, fuel and light, 33 cents for clothing and 1 cent for funeral expenses.

Surely until such times as our government can pass legislation to have this increased, there are enough service clubs, women's clubs, etc., and private individuals in more fortunate circumstances who could come forward and invite these people to one of our city's dining-rooms at least once a week. They could give them one good meal in pleasant surroundings and let them feel they are not entirely forgotten in a Christian land.

Let us talk less, and act more, in this matter.

Decorations were carried out in the Hallowe'en motif with orange and black streamers across the room. Len Acre's orchestra supplied music for the dance.

A floor show presented by Miss V. Watson, Miss I. Erskine and Mr. B. Hope, included clever tap dancing numbers which delighted the audience.

Proceeds from the evening's fun will be used for new equipment for the maternity pavilion at the hospital.

Race—A Myth Dr. Gunther Says

Recently Dr. Erna Gunther of the Department of Anthropology of the University of Washington spoke to the Institute for Interracial Friendship on the subject "The Myth of Racism."

Dr. Gunther stated that the word "race" as we use it is purely a "myth" and said she hoped to give the group present more ammunition with which to counteract racial prejudice.

She asserted, "There is only one race." The difference in race coloring is caused by pigmentation. "There is no such thing as a pure race."

She felt that the lack of ability of the Australian native to put several blocks into a set pattern as instructed by the psychiatrist was due to the lack of the same cultural background as the white person. Should the white person be requested to use a boomerang she felt he would show the same stupidity as did the native when asked to arrange the blocks.

Dr. Gunther said we should have a new type of community interpretation to break down the segregation of living. This could be best gained by having mixed musical groups and community social activities.

"Each person should stand for his or her ideals," she urged, "there is no effort too small but what it will do something towards promoting friendship between all races."

New Pledges—The following new pledges were welcomed by Louise Michaux, vice-president of Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, at their meeting recently: Joyce Howarth, Frances West, Madalen Hind, Grace Kirkham, Helen McKee and Betty Prangnell. Under the direction of Maude Hammond, a cultural program on "Jewelry" was presented at the "model meeting." Plans were discussed for the bazaar to be held Nov. 9 at the Y.W.C.A.

Youngsters Frolic At Hallowe'en Parties

Organized school parties kept many children off the streets and away from trouble, temptation on Hallowe'en. At Sir James Douglas School these two were among many who masqueraded for an evening of games and fun. Left is Raymond Hodgkinson and right Joy McLean.

Prizewinners for their costumes at the South Park School party were: left to right, Gayle Calder, first; Elizabeth Hillard, second; and Shirley Waring, third.

Other South Park School kiddies who "dolled up" for their "off the street" partying were, left to right: Leona Orchard, Betty Westfield, Jean Courville and Norma Graves.

HOW TO Remove Dandruff COMPLETELY

1. Apply FITCH'S directly from bottle onto the hair and scalp before any water is added. Massage well with hands, making sure shampoo reaches each part of scalp.

2. Add water gradually, continuing to massage. Remove the cleansing lather as it forms. Then continue to add water until no more lather forms.

3. Rinse thoroughly with clear water. Since Fitch's is completely soluble, no after-rinse is required. Set the hair and dry.

4. Finished hairstyle is soft and lovely. No trace of dandruff or dullness left to cloud its natural, sparkling highlights.

Fitch's Dandruff Remover Shampoo is the only shampoo made whose guarantee to remove dandruff with the first application has the backing of one of the world's largest insurance firms. Enjoy lustrous, dandruff-free hair! Ask for an economical bottle of Fitch's at your drug counter, or have professional applications at your beauty or barber shop.

After and between Fitch shampoos you can keep your hair shining and manageable by using a few drops of Fitch's Ideal Hair Tonic every day. Fitch's Ideal Hair Tonic is not sticky or greasy, yet it gives your hair that well-groomed look.

DON'T BORROW FROM personal FRIENDS.

It was Shakespeare who said: "Neither a borrower nor a lender be: 'For loan oft loses both itself and friend.'"

Shakespeare's advice is as sound today as it was when he wrote it, but, then, he was talking of personal friends.

Today, there is no need to lose friends because you need money, for lending money is everyday business at the Bank of Montreal, and because it is done on a sound and businesslike basis, the Bank, instead of losing friends, makes more and more every day.

To anyone in a position to repay without hardship, the Bank of Montreal lends money for any constructive purpose and at a rate so low as to be negligible.

27 MONTH
for a $100 loan

... repayable in 12 monthly instalments (equal to 6% interest per annum)

The Bank is glad to do it. That is what it is there for, and no true friend should ever trouble another friend for a loan while such a service is at his command.

Choose Site For Planting Bulbs, Solly Advises

In choosing the position in which the bulbs are to be planted, it is well to remember that they respond most readily when they are able to obtain a maximum of sunshine. The only position where bulbs are unable to respond favorably is where they are planted under the shade or drip of coniferous evergreens. Even then they will give a fair showing if the tree's branches are cut high.

The most favored system used in planting bulbs is to set them in relatively large quantities together, in perennial borders or beds. This insures a brilliant and spectacular display.

It is not necessary to plant bulbs in beds, however, as many of their flowers show up well against the dark green foliage of the evergreens or in groups in the flower border. The tall breeder tulips go well in the background, medium varieties with the tall narcissus in the middle, and dwarf narcissus, bluebells, etc., in the front, of any border.

Planting in the border or among the evergreens has the advantage over the bed system as the plants may be left to ripen rather than be lifted too soon. If planted deep enough, they will not interfere with cultivation of other plants.

Those gardeners who have already tried setting bulbs in groups of from six to 12 in various parts of the garden are loudly singing the praises of this plan.

GOOD DRAINAGE IMPORTANT

Should the area in which bulbs are planted become waterlogged or muddy during the rainy season, no amount of good care and attention is of any value.

Good drainage is of the utmost importance in all bulb planting areas. Sometimes the lack of good drainage is not apparent from the surface, but under too wet conditions the new root formation is delayed or totally suspended. Lack of air in the soil prevents the roots from "breathing." If this happens, the bulbs will either rot or its growth is so impaired that it fails to flower properly.

DEPTH TO PLANT

Most bulbs are planted too shallow. The required depth to set the base of the bulb is at least three times its own depth below soil level. The bulb should actually rest on a one-inch layer of coarse sand. Below this sand the soil should have been well prepared, mixed and enriched with humus and plant food to a further 10 to 12 inches. The enriching of the soil below the bulb, where feeding takes place, is of most importance than the conditioning of the soil above the bulb so that it is light and porous good garden soil.

It is of utmost importance to the success of the plant that a large amount of healthy root growth be established there before top growth starts. Without plenty of roots the stored food in the bulb cannot be properly released and utilized in the satisfactory production of handsome flowers on long, strong stems.

When purchasing bulbs for planting, it should be remembered that the first year's flowers are assured, anyway, by the bulbs' stored food, and that they will do fairly well for the first year in any fair soil. Because of this fact, we should not neglect to plan for the following years. The plant cannot use up the stored food without its being replaced or a consequent rapid deterioration takes place.

It is highly important to establish the planted bulbs in conditions where they will thrive and succeed for many years.

PLANT FOOD

Choose a lasting fertilizer to use in the bed, below the bulb and above, which contains a properly-balanced supply of all the essential plant foods. Wood ashes, if procurable, should also be used in the soil preparation.

Since most garden soils are slightly acid, calcium should be used in every bulb bed. Calcium is not only a plant food in itself but it acts as a catalyst in the soil, freeing many minerals by making them usable to the plants and thus "conditioning" the soil.

Of even greater value than calcium (lime), are the natural deposits of what were once freshwater shellfish. In this area many deposits of marl or talc are available. They contain large quantities of slowly available magnesium, an absolutely necessary mineral for good bulb plant growth in addition to the many other essential plant foods.

The reason that "bulbs" are so good natured is that the bulb is really a storehouse of food. The leaves have to do their work of manufacturing living matter from the plant foods in the soil and in the air, and this living matter is stored through the winter months in the bulbs. The successful flowering, therefore, of a bulbous plant does not depend on the fertility of the soil in which it is flowered for the first year, but on the conditions under which the bulb was formed. The gardener can buy bulbs that have been reared in ideal conditions, and can transfer them to his somewhat poor garden, where sunshine and air are none too plentiful, and can still be sure that they will flower well.

Safety Film Draws Attention To Faults Of Auto Drivers

A film short entitled "Traffic with the Devil," which illustrated the common faults of automobile drivers today, was presented to members of the provincial, Oak Bay, Saanich and city police forces at the Capitol Theatre Thursday.

It is not the fault of the 30,000,000 cars on the road today that an accident happens every 30 seconds of the day, and a death due to traffic accidents every 15 minutes, but rather the fault of the driver of that car, who deems his car as an every day necessity of life, and uses it as such, the film demonstrates.

The picture emphasizes that the carefree, careless, accelerator-pushing individual who takes his life and the life of others in his hands every time he sits behind the wheel, is the greatest offender of traffic violations on the highways today. Then there is the person who has not had time to have his brakes repaired; or the ogler, who would rather look at a pretty pair of legs than the traffic lights. The danger of driving with "one too many beers" is also drawn attention to. "All of these and others are just incidents that could easily be remedied by the individual himself, if he would exercise a little care and caution on the highways. Don't look on every policeman as an enemy, but rather as a public servant who is performing his duty in your behalf for your safety and the safety of others," is one of the messages the film carries.

Lions Arrange For Convention Here

Plans are being prepared to accommodate 3,000 delegates who will attend the convention of the Lions International, District 19, in Victoria in June next year.

The convention commission, composed of Lions officials, will arrive in Victoria Sunday to authorize and approve the convention headquarters. Among those who will attend the meeting will be Jack Peddyford, Governor of District 19 of Lions International, who will come from Bellingham.

Mr. Peddyford has been participating in Lions activities since 1939. He is treasurer and office manager of the Bellingham Tug and Barge Company and vice-president of the Alaska Forest Products Company.

Fasts For India

LONDON (AP) — A Hindu social worker entertained 12 friends at what he called a "Last Supper" Thursday night, and then began a "fast unto death" for India's freedom.

He will eat again, he said, only if India attains complete independence.

The hunger striker, K. K. Chatterjee, a Bengali Brahmin, had notified Prime Minister Attlee and the British India Office of his intention, and said that while able he would call at the India office daily during the fast.

Love Story Of West On Dominion Screen

The tender love which existed between two of the hardest characters of the old west, "Wild Bill" Hickok, hard-shooting exponent of law-and-order as the newly opened territory knew it, and "Calamity Jane," a beauty who packed a pair of six-guns and drove a six-horse stagecoach, is the basis of Cecil B. DeMille's revived screen masterpiece, "The Plainsman," at the Dominion theatre today.

History relates how Hickok, played by Gary Cooper, was retained by the government to investigate gun-running in the west because he was the most-feared character of a region known for its hard men.

ATLAS THEATRE

One of the reasons Fred MacMurray is starring in 20th Century-Fox's Technicolor hit, "Smoky," at the Atlas Theatre, is that he stands six feet three. When Director King set about casting the Will James story, he insisted his cowpunchers be at least six feet tall.

RIO THEATRE

Merle Oberon is the first Hollywood star to play a Pirandello heroine since Greta Garbo appeared in "As You Desire Me." Miss Oberon is currently starring with Claude Rains and Charles Korvin in Universal's "This Love of Ours" at the Rio Theatre.

YORK THEATRE

Double-crossed by the cellos and hoodwinked by the woodwinds, Walter Brennan considers himself a tortured symphony conductor whom music has deliberately confused. Brennan is a capable character actor, and he plays a featured role in Samuel Goldwyn's "Ragged Angels" now showing at the York Theatre, but his years of training in no wise fitted him to ride herd on a fractious bunch of musicians.

BOOKS

UNGLAMOROUS SUBJECT

"Mister Roberts," by Thomas Heggan (Thomas Allen Ltd.).

ALTHOUGH there has been little advance publicity given this book it is an exciting and well-written effort.

Thomas Heggan is a young graduate of the University of Minnesota who put in four years in the United States Navy. He saw sea duty in both the Pacific and Atlantic and took part in the Guam, Peleliu, Iwo Jima and Okinawa campaigns, all of which is injected into his book.

His unglamorous subject is a cargo ship. She has never seen action but the events that happen on her during months in the backwash of the Pacific are both moving and humorous.

The main feature of "Mister Roberts" is the sincerity with which it is written. The writer appears to have felt his subject deeply and chronicled the events and painted the people he met during his navy years.

His writing is smooth, although neither sophisticated or smart; it is humorous but not sarcastic, and at times it is beautiful.

COLORFUL

"Children's Book of the Great Lakes," by Leonard L. Knott (Editorial Association, Montreal).

THIS is the second in a series of Canadian juvenile books by Leonard L. Knott. "Children's Book of the Great Lakes" is colorful and contains a grand assortment of legends and tales of the Great Lakes country.

One of the most interesting stories is Two Mighty Men, the story of Hiawatha and Paul Bunyan. The story of The Ships That Walk Upstairs will teach children how locks operate and the work that went into the locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

Leonard Knott tells the children about grain ships and grain elevators, of eastern cities and Four Victoria nurses are among 46 registered nurses who this year obtained Victorian Order of Nurses scholarships enabling them to attend the public health nursing course offered in several Canadian Universities, V.O.N. officials announced today.

The four local scholarship winners are Maureen Seymour, University of Toronto; Willa McClement, McGill University; Norma Kenney and Kathryn Smyth, University of British Columbia.

Other British Columbians who obtained scholarships were Nita Enns, Vancouver; Kathleen Davies, New Westminster, and Margaret Whitecross, Vancouver.

The recent interest of the American public in ballet as a medium of popular mass entertainment has not been lost on Walt Disney. In his new surprise Technicolor feature, "Make Mine Music," now at the Capitol theatre, Disney presents a spectacular new type of ballet staging, which stars David Lichine and Rhabouchinska, outstanding dance duo.

Cary Grant, who plays Cole Porter, and Monty Woolley, who plays himself in Warner's new Technicolor musical, "Night and Day," now at the Royal, were doing a scene for director Mike Curtiz when Woolley's beard became a casualty. The time was Christmas. The two men faced each other over an enormous flaming punch bowl. Woolley bowed just too low and his pink beard began to smoke.

Screen actress Louise Beavers has finally achieved one of the ambitions of her professional career. She now has the tag scene in Universal's "Lover Come Back." The comedy surprise is playing currently at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres. ## Hollywood Show-Stealer

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—If you have seen the film musical "Three Little Girls in Blue," you know that one little girl in red steals the show.

She's a gal by the name of Celeste Holm, who never could say "No" as Ado Annie in the Broadway hit "Oklahoma."

But off stage, Celeste said "No" to movie offers for five years while playing in "The Women," in "The Time of Your Life" for the Theatre Guild, and in "Oklahoma."

Celeste could say "No" to Hollywood gold because she was already in the blue chips and because: "I don't like to act just for the sake of acting. I want to make people happy."

Hollywood offered her the usual stock contracts. Celeste said "No." Hollywood raised its offer to three and then four figures. Celeste said "No."

NO BRUSH-OFF FOR HER

"I had to protect myself," Celeste says. "They lure you out to Hollywood, miscast you in some stinker, then let your opinion drop. And you go back to Broadway with all your confidence gone. In the theatre if you don't get anywhere you don't get anywhere."

But finally the "I Can't Say No" gal said "Yes" to 20th Century-Fox and came to Hollywood. They cast her as a U.S.O. entertainer who turns out to be a heel in "Where Do We Go From Here?" Celeste said, "No—that isn't consistent," and went back to Broadway to star in "Bloomer Girl."

Fox sent her a new script, "Three Little Girls in Blue." Celeste said "Yes."

It was the role she had been waiting for—comedy with a bit of singing. "It makes people happy."

But despite Hollywood's most elaborate technicolor test—made while she was still co-starring in "Oklahoma"—Celeste doesn't like the way she was photographed in "Three Little Girls." Even her mother was disappointed, writing her: "I just saw your picture, darling, and you look like the dean of American women."

She has one of those rosy peaches-and-cream complexions. "But all the camera picked up was the rosy red. For a minute there, I thought I was an Indian."

GREAT SENSE OF HUMOR

By this time you've doubtless guessed that Celeste has a wonderful sense of humor. She frequently bowls people over with such remarks as, "Being a celebrity isn't all a bed of mink," and (referring to a compact with an outside mirror), "That's the way I like 'em. You get the shock right away."

Getting back to that screen test, the studio wasn't so sure about Celeste's signing a contract, so they gave her all the red carpet this side of the Mississippi. Gregory Ratoff directed the test, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Dick Haymes, Michael Auer and Vincent Price worked with her.

Celeste admitted she was scared to death during the test. "It was like walking into the bottom of the sea not knowing people stand around waiting for you to swim. Hundreds of you-to-get good."

But that Celeste got good is pretty obvious.

Schools Will Be Open To Visitors

Next week Victoria will observe with the rest of British Columbia the National program for Canadian Education week which has been prepared by a committee of British Columbia educationists.

Parents will be allowed to visit the schools of their children and the proposed models of schools for Victoria will be put on display in a window of David Spencer Ltd.

On Wednesday, members of Greater Victoria Teacher Association will hold a meeting to discuss educational reforms and other matters pertaining to the welfare of teachers of the district.

The purpose of education week is to bring to the notice of the public the aims and needs of Canadian education and to help parents of every community to know the achievements and needs of their schools. Further, more education week strives to increase public interest in and support of desirable reforms in education.

Housing Project Materials Not Part Of City Quota

David S. Keast, rental supervisor of Housing Enterprises Ltd., here from head office in Toronto, today stated definitely "most of the supplies we will require for our Victoria project are already ordered, and are not being deducted from any quota assigned to your city," in answering charges made by members of the Builders' Exchange to a City Council meeting Wednesday evening, that the building of the 104 houses would hold up 1,000 homes in Victoria.

The business, trade and re-establishment committee Thursday recommended to the City Council that the city not enter into any contract with Housing Enterprises Ltd. at the present time, to permit building of 104 houses in the northern section of the city, "to allow the council to hear evidence from officials of the company as to the matters brought out" at Wednesday night's council meeting.

Ald. B. J. Gadsden, chairman of the committee, said also that a telegram had been sent to Ottawa asking "for an adjustment of the present situation, in order that materials frozen in warehouses may be released to finish some 1,000 houses 50 to 90 per cent completed, but waiting for such materials, and substitute similar materials at a later date when they are needed, which will be some 10 months in the future."

This would mean, Ald. Gadsden explained that "for these purposes the present established priorities be relaxed to allow giving a first priority to these materials."

A second resolution passed by the committee requests the Timber Controller of Canada to issue a directive to lumber mills, in this area providing for a first priority to veterans' houses 50 per cent complete, over any other classification for a stated period of 90 days.

In a prepared statement, Mr. Keast offered to discuss the matter with members of the Builders' Exchange.

Victor Leigh, president of the Builders' Exchange, today said that he and other members of the Exchange would be willing to meet with the Housing Enterprises' representatives. "If they think they are smart enough to make black look white we are quite prepared to listen to them reasonably," Mr. Leigh said. "We haven't a closed mind on the subject, but we are fighting for our existence."

Mr. Keast's statement follows: "We regret very much that there is some misunderstanding about the organization and purpose of Housing Enterprises Ltd. and we regret more particularly the misunderstanding concerning the steps we are taking to provide attractive, permanent rental dwellings for 104 Victoria families who, for one reason or another, are not able at this time to buy or build for themselves.

"I have had no opportunity to study at length the points considered last night by the City Council, but am satisfied there is no real reason for the Victoria builders to direct this fire at Housing Enterprises of Canada. We are not in any way their competitors. Our houses are for rent, not for sale."

NO SPECIAL PRIORITIES

"As to priorities—we enjoy no advantage not available to veterans, who may be among the owners of the 1,000 incomplete houses, or to any other person who is building for veterans and has taken the trouble to apply to the government for a priority. Of course if the houses are not for veterans they get no priority whatever."

The materials we are now using are not the ones needed to finish the 1,000 houses we hear about. Most of the supplies we will be requiring for our Victoria project are already ordered and on the way, and are not being deducted from any quota assigned to your city. In fact if we don't go ahead on Quadra Street, the materials will be used in Regina, Edmonton or Vancouver.

"Will that do Victoria builders any good? Or the several 100 Victoria families who have no homes?"

"I think a quiet talk with members of the Victoria Builders' Exchange would clear up a lot of our difficulties."

Mr. Keast said first detailed plans for the Victoria houses arrived in Vancouver today from eastern headquarters and would be in Victoria this week.

Immigrants Coming To Canada By Air

LONDON (CP)—The first complete family to emigrate to Canada by air will leave England next Tuesday when farmer Alan Huntley of Dover takes off with his wife and two daughters from a London airport for Montreal.

Mr. Huntley, who has been trying to get to Canada since 1938, intends to view prospective farm sites in British Columbia and Ontario before making a final decision on where to settle.

The plane, in regular service, also will carry the first express money orders issued in the United Kingdom since the war, now made available to travelers approved by the Bank of England.

Ghost Of Houdini Fails To Appear

DETROIT (AP)—The ghost of Harry Houdini failed to appear Thursday night at a seance held by a group of Detroit magicians on the 20th anniversary of the great magician's death.

Promptly at midnight, Robert Ungerwitt, a Detroit magician, called on Houdini's spirit to make itself known before 15 persons assembled in a darkened room.

At the end of five minutes of silence, magician Karrell Fox, who had arranged the demonstration, announced: "This test did not get through."

1947 Tourist Trade Expected To Exceed This Year's Record

Trade and Industry Minister Leslie H. Eyres, back from Ottawa where he attended an inter-provincial conference on tourist problems, reported today he expected British Columbia's tourist trade next year would exceed the estimated $30,000,000 business done this year.

By 1948 he expected competition for tourists would have increased and British Columbia might have to expend more money on advertising to maintain her tourist trade. Mr. Eyres said he would seek a larger appropriation for the B.C. Government Travel Bureau for next year.

Both the southern states of the United States and South America and other Latin American countries were campaigning harder now for tourists than ever before in history, Mr. Eyres said. British Columbia hotels and tourists resorts may find they will have to compete with these areas to secure tourists from California, Texas and other western states—the greatest source of British Columbia tourists.

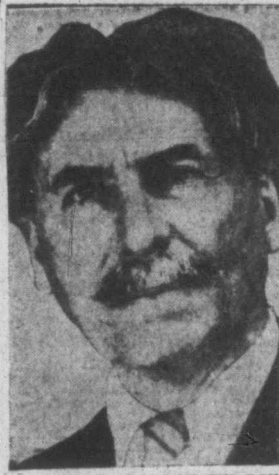

Mr. Eyres said he believed more cars would be available and potential tourists would have less fears about difficulties to secure accommodation.

The conference discussed the possibility of the Dominion government doing more regional advertising for tourists and the elimination of overlapping tourist advertising.

Accommodation and courtesy were emphasized as the kingpins in building up British Columbia's tourist industry.

Transplanted Lobsters Doing Fine In B.C.

Provincial fisheries officials said today an experimental batch of 2,000 lobsters transplanted from the Bay of Fundy last June to a lagoon in the Gulf of Georgia are doing fine so far. Fisheries inspectors have just had another look at them and say they seem to be getting acclimatized to Pacific waters.

Assistant commissioner of fisheries George J. Alexander said location of the experimental lobster lagoon is being kept secret to avoid poaching by those with epicurean tastes. But inspections of the bed showed some carrying eggs.

"This might go on for six or eight months and then we might discover they had petered out," Mr. Alexander said. "It will take a year before we know if they will propagate."

The experiment is to determine if a lobster industry can be started on this coast.

By PETE SALLAWAY

FOLLOW UP on Tuesday's open meeting of the Victoria United soccer players and officials. During the mulling over of the football situation both here and in Vancouver the matter of payment of players was discussed. Several of the local boys brought up the fact that it was common knowledge that some of the better players with the mainland teams in the coast circuit were drawing down regular cash hand-outs. Although local officials did not deny they knew of such a situation it was generally argued the Vancouver players were not likely to get rich over any money they made out of football. "It's playing for peanuts," declared Pat Mulcahy, Victoria representative of the British Columbia Soccer Commission.

JUST to enlighten both the Victoria players and moguls on the mainland situation let me quote a few lines from Alf Cottrell's column in the Vancouver Sun: "Do you think those Callister Park soccer players are doing badly? Eric Camp was offered $12 a game to play for Kerrisdale and turned it down to stick with St. Saviours. Some of the cuts after the game are said to go as high as $18 per player to the winning team which gets 60 per cent to the loser's 40. St. Saviours, by the way, are the only remaining amateurs in a fairly strict sense. The club keeps the money, puts it in a jackpot and throws Christmas parties and such for the players. But look where they are in the league!" What I can't understand is why these clubs don't play professional football and be done with it. I never could stomach these so-called amateurs.

NEW YORK YANKEES ball club certainly is drawing down a carload of off-season publicity on the appointment of a new manager. And in all the talk over just who Larry MacPhail will name to take over the famous Gothamites the name of one individual who still stands a first-class chance to get the job receives little mention. I refer to Frankie Frisch who established himself in the rival National League.

FRISCH, whose triumphs with the St. Louis Cardinals after he left the New York Giants back in 1927 are legion, holds a lot of respect within MacPhail, and has been mentioned on and off as prospective manager of the Yankees although not recently. His chances are even better since Brooklyn's Leo Durocher thus far has turned down any offer by MacPhail to take the job. Chuck Dressen, Brooklyn coach, who the other day resigned to join up with the Yanks, may wind up in the driver's seat.

BRITISH COLUMBIA racing fans no doubt were not surprised to learn that Chris Junior drew the blame for that pile-up at Bay Meadows for the afternoon which resulted in Jockey Nick Wall suffering what may prove fatal injuries. Stewards on Vancouver and Victoria tracks had their fill of this erratic gelding the last two seasons. He was ruled off the Vancouver tracks for ducking out and his refusal to run to any consistent form. He could be 10 lengths on top and would still bear out and lose a race. But, on the other hand, he proved his ability several times to outrun such speedsters as Mafasta and Civil Code out of the gate. In this manner the great Whirlaway in his freshman season lost about half his starts. Incidentally I know a miserable

Former College Stars In Northwest Pro Loop

Three members of the Dominoes, Art Chapman, Doug Peden and Porky Andrews, who made a flying trip to Vancouver yesterday, to confer with Clem MacDonald, owner of the Vancouver franchise in the new northwest professional cage circuit, have returned home. Although nothing definite has been decided in regard to contracts, the trio, along with Reg Clarkson, former U.B.C. star, will turn out when practice sessions open on Nov. 12.

SEATTLE (AP)—Pro basketball comes to eight Pacific Northwest cities in December.

Several college "greats" of recent years on northwest courts, among them Gail Bishop of Washington State College fame and Slim Wintermute, Oregon star of equal ranking, were disclosed today as men lined up to play in an eight-team circuit. Bishop will lead the Bellingham club and Wintermute the Portland entry, as playing managers. The other teams will be Seattle, Tacoma, Salem, Ore., Vancouver and Yakima, a commissioner, Robert A. (Bobby) Morris disclosed here, announcing the circuit. Emil Piluso, veteran northwest referee, will be the league's chief official.

Home schedules of approximately 34 games each are being arranged, avoiding conflicts with school and university schedules as much as possible.

The group has incorporated under Washington State law as the National Association of Professional Basketball Leagues and several eastern pro circuits have accepted membership, Morris said. The teams will be made up largely of former college stars and is sound financially, he added.

Other teams and their set-ups, Morris said, are: Seattle—Stan Riddle, coach; Judge Charles P. Moriarty, president; Mate Clark, hotel man, backer, and Jerry Hartnett, business manager.

Spokane—Elia (Squinty) Hunter, coach; James McCluskey, hotel man, backer.

Tacoma—Norm Ginsberg, acting manager. He will try to line up Jimmy Ennis, Washington State College assistant football coach, as coach.

Salem—Frank Shone, business manager. Former Washington star.

Yakima—Jack Hammond, owner. Players will include Pat Dorsey.

Vancouver—Clem MacDonald holds franchise.

Calgary-Bombers Settle Western Football Title

WINNIPEG (CP)—Blue Bombers will be shooting the works tomorrow against Calgary Stampede in an effort to wipe out the three-point lead Stampede gained at Calgary last Saturday in the first of a home-and-home total-point series for the western Canada senior football title. Calgary won the opener 21 to 18.

Except in 1944, when no playoffs were held, Winnipeg has won the title every year since 1937. Despite wintry blasts, Bombers have been working out nightly this week in hopes of forming a formidable defence against Stampede's passing attack. Coach Jack West has shifted Don Smith to left halfback from his normal fullback spot. Walter Dobler will remain at quarter, with Don Hiney, Harry Hood and Bill Ordway completing the starting backfield.

Ordway will have the difficult task of handling Stampede's rangy end, Hal Harrison, who out-stretched Bomber backs in the first tilt, to make advantageous catches of Bill Wusyk's long forward passes.

When the week-end's heavy snow storm drove Bombers off Osborne Stadium grounds, they turned to indoor sessions on the dirt floor of the Olympic rink.

West said Bombers hope to do better before their own partisans, and, if they get by Stampede, they'll go after the Grey Cup, emblematic of Canadian football supremacy.

EASTERN CLASHES

In the short Canadian rugby season all the games are crucial, but they're really important. The fact that it's "win or else" for a number of teams probably accounts for the scarcity of pre-game predictions. And sell-out crowds can be expected at most of the games.

In the eastern Big Four, it's Toronto Argonauts at Montreal Alouettes, and Ottawa Rough Riders at Hamilton Tigers. The teams wind up the league schedule Nov. 9 with two squads going into a playoff. Right now, Argos and Alouettes are tied with 14 points. Ottawa is third with 10, and Tigers are out of contention, with two points.

In the senior Ontario union, four of the six teams will qualify for the playoffs. Their schedule finishes today with Toronto Indians at Sarnia Imperials, and Toronto Balmy Beach traveling to Windsor Rockets.

That midweek O.R.F.U. game put Hamilton on top with 17 points, "displacing" Toronto Indians who have 15. Balmy Beach have 10, Sarnia Eight and Windsor six. Ottawa hasn't any points. Saturday's games in the O.R.F.U. therefore will decide the four playoff teams unless Windsor beats Balmy Beach.

SATURDAY SOCCER

Intermediate league football games tomorrow follow:
2.30—Oak Bay vs. Saanich Thistles, Hampton Road.
2.30—Gorge Aces vs. Navy, Colville Road.

Mustangs Travel To Vancouver For Important Battle

Mustangs, Victoria's hope to retain possession of the Lipton Cup in the Big Four Canadian Football League, will travel to Vancouver this week-end to tangle with the cellar place Meralomas in the second half of the double bill at Capilano stadium.

A win for the locals combined with a V.A.C. victory over the Buckaroos, will leave the Mustangs in second spot in the standings. As these are the final two games of the season, the outcome will have a definite bearing on the Shaughnessy playoff for the title.

In the post-season playoff, first and third teams and second and fourth will meet each other in sudden death games, the finalists to clash in Vancouver for the title.

If Mustangs win, they will play Meralomas here in the knockout game on Nov. 9. Whereas, a loss for the locals, combined with a loss to the Buckaroos, will create a tie for second, and a toss-up will determine the second and third positions for the playdowns.

Manager Wally Smith reports that a full squad, with the exception of Vic Dale, will make the trip to the mainland. Billy O'Connell, sticky-fingered end, and Ted O'Brien, who missed last week's game, due to injuries, will be in uniform.

Aces, Emcas Win Basketball Games

Brentwood Aces and Emcas won the intermediate B hoop games last night, the former taking the measure of Spencer's 26 to 19, and the latter coming through with an easy 31 to 20 victory over Chinese Students.

Aces came from behind to erase an 11 to 8 first quarter lead and outscored their opponents 18 to 8 in the final three quarters. Four of the sub-urbanites hit the hoop for six points as scoring honors were well divided.

In the second game of the evening, Emcas had little trouble in holding a 13 to 0 first quarter lead, although the Students managed to slice off two points in the second canto. J. John of the losers, with 12 points, was high man for the night.

The services of Marg Louden, Hudson's Bay hoop star, will be lost to her team for approximately six weeks, as she is suffering from a chipped ankle bone, and will have the injured leg in a cast for some time. She was injured in the second half of the Bay-Comets game on Wednesday night.

Teams and scores follow:
Spencer-Bill Hope 2, Carroll 6. Dave Main 2, Bill Kerr, Ron Milligan 6, Norman Sanders 2, Pat Hodkins, Hugh Harris, Dick Dale.

United Experiment For Shores' Match

With their line-up having experienced a complete reshuffling following a stiff training session last night, Victoria United football squad will go up against crafty North Shore in a Pacific Coast League engagement at Athletic Park tomorrow afternoon. Kickoff is set for 2.30 with George Barnes as referee.

Champion Bays Battle Cadets In Rugger Feature

Bert Buller's J.B.A.A. rugger fifteen, Rounsle and Barnard Cup champions of last season, will open defence of their title and city championship when they tangle with the Naval College tomorrow at Macdonald Park.

Bays will field most of the veteran team that annexed the B.C. championship last year with a few additions. The backfield should be one of the fastest in the league with such speedsters as Ritchie Williams, Fred Ransom, Austin Cullin, Daryl Popham, and Duff McCaghey lugging the ball. Tom McKeachie, rugged fullback, will be at his old post.

Key players such as Doug Bray and Bill Van Druten will form the nucleus of a hustling scrum which includes Bob Mair, Joe Andrews, Tom Dalzell, Albie Williams and Len Jury.

Naval College checked in with a win over the Oak Bay Wanderers in the curtain-raiser last week, and will be out to make it two straight over Bert Buller's boys on the upper field.

In the second match of the double bill at the James Bay enclosure, J.B.A.A. intermediates will clash with Victoria College. Both games start at 2.30.

J.B.A.A. teams follow: Seniors, Doug Bray, Bob Mair, Joe Andrews, Tom Dalzell, Albie Williams, Bill Van Druten, Len Jury, Lorne Johnson, Ritchie Williams, Fred Ransom, Austin Cullin, Daryl Popham, Jim Ransom, Duff McCaghey, Tom McKeachie.

In other matches played during the week, Robinson's Grocery took the measure of Strathcona Hotel 21 to 15, Dodgers eked out a close win over MacDonald Electric 18 to 16, and Giants bested the Capitols 19 to 17.

Team scores follow:

With 10 players out to practice trainer Charlie Restell put the boys through a strenuous workout and reports everybody ready to go up against the league co-leaders. Both Restell and manager Ralph Cosier report a much better spirit among the players following their get-together of last Tuesday.

Entire club has been switched around for tomorrow with the changes figured to give the United much-needed punch on the forward line. Tommy Druce who, in previous matches has played well at right fullback, moves up to centre-forward, the position he played so well for Toppers last season. He will be flanked on the right side by Murray Speller and Denny Shubrooke and on the left by those two veterans Noel Morgan and George Payne.

DEFENCE STRONG

The half-back line will see Red McMillan, Tom Fraser and Joe Travis in action. Bobby Bell, the club's field captain, will be at left back partnered by Alan Renside, who had previously played on the half and forward lines. Bobby Moss will be in goal. On the reserve list will be Rookie Wright, Alf Jenkins, Al Travis, Nip Sage and Earle Barnswell.

In North Shore the United will meet a well-balanced club that has been further strengthened by the recent addition of George Steele, former Scottish League member. Steele will operate at centre-forward with the ever-dangerous Trevor Harvey and Jimmy Spencer alongside him. This trio give Shores a potent scoring threesome that will require plenty of watching.

New Westminster In Close Hockey Win

Only two games were played in the Pacific Coast Hockey League last night. New Westminster Royals scored a 5 to 4 win over the Portland Eagles in overtime. The loss leaves the Eagles in second place, below Seattle's Ironmen, with eight points, a position they will have to share with Vancouver Canucks should they lose against the port city tonight.

In Oakland, San Diego's undefeated Skyhawks chalked up a 7 to 1 victory over Oakland A's.

The Victoria Amateur Swimming Club will meet at the Crystal Garden tonight at 8. All senior and junior members are requested to attend.

Even if all this lumber were cut into wood it would be cheap inside wood and a load will make about 15 cords. Especially handy for people who live outside of town and find it hard to get wood. ## Nail Shortage Causing Crisis In City Building Operations

The nail shortage in Victoria has reached crisis proportions so far as local builders are concerned, Victor Leigh, president of the Builders' Exchange, said today, after receiving a letter from a hardware firm explaining the present priority system so far as nails are concerned.

"None of us have any nails," Mr. Leigh stated, "Our stocks are virtually exhausted. In the manner in which the priorities are set out, the only nails available for the private builder are for the veteran holding an A.P.H. priority certificate. To obtain this certificate he has to sign a form to the effect that the house is 50 per cent completed."

"The burning question is how can this veteran get his house 50 per cent completed without any nails? So far as houses now under construction for other civilians, including those who may have had sons and daughters in the services, there is no provision for them to obtain nails at all."

SHORTAGE UNTIL 1947
Mr. Leigh was informed by hardware firms that they "do not believe there will be any great quantity of nails available for ordinary purposes until the spring of 1947."

Other builders confirmed Mr. Leigh's statement that the condition has rapidly worsened during the past few weeks.

E. A. Leslie, the Vancouver regional representative of the priorities branch, in a letter, explained that all nails coming from the Morrison Steel and Wire Company plant, which under normal conditions can supply all the coast needs, will be allocated on approved priorities for low-cost housing projects, and the food industry, including fish, fruit and egg packing.

Distribution of nails for veterans for their homes is to be made through the Department of Veterans' Affairs and Citizens' Rehabilitation Committees. After distributors have made the specified allocation of nails on priority, they will be expected to distribute the remaining nails to essential industries and retail outlets.

Mr. Leslie suggested that each distributor set up an "informal preference system within his organization whereby the nails remaining after allocation of priority orders will be supplied, first to lumber, logging and coal mining operations; secondly, to utilities, and the balance to other outlets you feel are in most need."

Mr. Leigh, however, questioned if there would be any nails left after the priorities were filled for general allocation. He estimated that possibly less than half the 1,000 uncompleted housing units in process of building in Victoria had reached the 50 per cent completed stage, and all of these would not be eligible for priorities.

Len Holyoak Takes Most Awards At 'Mum' Exhibition

Taking nearly all main awards in the sixth annual show of the Victoria District Chrysanthemum Society, Len Holyoak, local chrysanthemum grower, proved he is a master in his chosen hobby.

Runner up in the grand aggregate was Dave Nichol, who also won the M. O. Mayhew trophy for best bloom in the show.

Highest number of points awarded in the novice class went to P. D. Pready, who received the M. H. Roffey Trophy. Globe Barber Shop trophy for most second and third prizes went to T. Chattell, who won nine seconds and four third prizes.

National Chrysanthemum Society certificates of merit were awarded to M. O. Mayhew for his non-competitive display and Len Holyoak for a tub of white Turners of 22 blooms.

First prize winners, one, two and three blooms, were as follows: White, H. Cousins, L. Holyoak and D. Nichol; red, J. Craig, L. Holyoak and H. Cousins; yellow, L. Holyoak and J. Craig;

Awards for a bowl of singles and a vase of singles, spray variety, went to S. Barlow. Winners in the novice class, one, two and three blooms, were H. A. Nuttall, P. D. Pready and J. M. Sturdy.

The show continues tonight and Saturday in the lower ballroom at the Crystal Garden. Proceeds are in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Crippled Children At Solarium Enjoy Hallowe'en Party

At the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children, held this week, it was reported that four new patients were admitted for treatment.

A recent check of diseases now being treated at the Solarium shows a list of long-term cases, the principal being: Tuberculosis of bones, 17 cases; chronic osteomyelitis, 11; Pertussis, 7; rheumatic heart, 9; clubbed feet, 3; coeliac disease, 2; congenital dislocation of hip, 4; and of 13 other diseases, 15 cases.

On Sept. 30 66 patients remained in hospital and five more have been admitted to date. Many good things were donated to the children for Hallowe'en festivities by the Solarium Junior League and the Naval Veterans Branch of the Canadian Legion, along with other gifts from friends, and the children were given a rousing good time by the members of the staff who donned Hallowe'en costumes and provided entertainment for them.

COLORED SERVANT TAUGHT 'MAGIC' TO GIRLS OF SALEM

On the ocean coast, about 15 miles northeast of Boston, is the city of Salem. This place dates back 320 years. It was founded by Puritan settlers only six years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth.

There are 27 cities and villages named Salem in the United States, and one in Canada. Among all of these, the largest is in Massachusetts, and it is the home of more than 40,000 people. Another thing which sets Salem, Mass., apart is the fact that it has a great blot on its history.

Two hundred and fifty-five years ago a group of girls and young women started to have strange meetings at a house near Salem. The house belonged to a minister named Samuel Parris.

Parris had been a merchant in the West Indies before becoming a pastor at Salem. From the West Indies he had obtained two household servants, a man known as Indian John and a woman called Tituba. Tituba was half Negro and half Indian.

The girls who gathered in the Parris household were 10 in number. They ranged in age from nine to 20 years. The youngest was Elizabeth Parris, daughter of the minister, and the oldest were Mary Warren and Sarah Churchill.

The purpose of the meetings was to learn "magic" from the colored servants in the house. Tituba certainly did most of the teaching, but it is believed that Indian John put in some words now and then.

Probably feeling that they were having great sport, the girls would get down on their hands and knees, would crawl under tables and chairs, and would practice having "fits." Often they would talk to one another in a "jargon" which was different from any known language. Whether they could understand anything spoken in this jargon is a question.

News tends to spread through a village, and soon the people in Salem were talking about what went on in the Parris home. Mrs. Thomas Putnam, mother of 12-year-old Ann Putnam, declared: "My daughter has been bewitched!"

The DOCTOR Says:

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE DEFIES SPECIAL DIETS

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.

Patients with high blood pressure often ask their physicians to suggest a diet which will correct their condition. Several diets have been tried, but only weight-reducing diets are helpful, and then only, of course, if the patient is overweight.

Red-faced, overweight, heavy eaters often have high blood pressure, and many people believe that eating excessive quantities of meat is the cause of the condition.

In high blood pressure, the difficulty is not in the blood, which is normal, but in the small arteries, which are constricted by spasm or by hardening or by both.

Red meat is not a cause of high blood pressure, for red meat does not differ, except in color, from white meat. Those with high blood pressure are no longer advised to limit their consumption of protein foods (meat, fish, fowl, eggs, and cheese), for those foods, eaten in moderation, are beneficial.

SALTLESS DIETS FAIL

Diets from which practically all the salt has been eliminated have been tried in treating high blood pressure, for under certain conditions excessive salt can cause the pressure to go up. Most good eaters like their food well salted, however, and when salt is taken from them they feel weak and disinclined to eat; their blood pressure may be lowered by weakness from fasting, but there is no basic effect on the arteries.

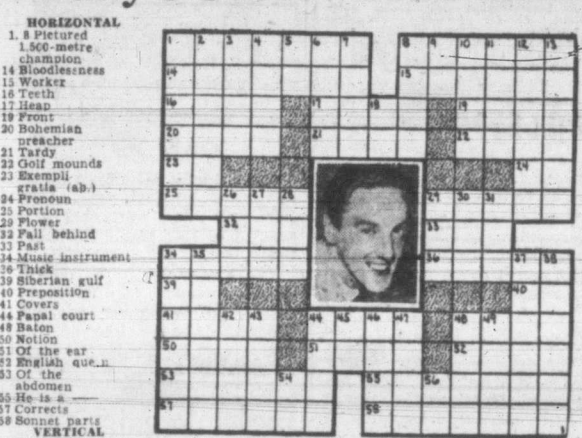

Patients with high blood pressure are advised to drink water when they feel thirsty, except in cases where they are being treated for some special complication in which fluid is restricted. Special spring waters do not have any greater value in reducing blood pressure than does plain drinking water.

High-blood-pressure patients who go to spas for a change respond to the well-ordered life in those institutions by relaxing their tension and getting more rest. Their pressure comes down, but it is the change in their way of living, rather than the special water they drink, which accounts for the improvement.

WINGS OF TOMORROW: No. 5: Around the World

By CHARLES TRACY

(1) Aviation hit the big time in the 1930's. Ocean spanning grew to globe-girdling. Wiley Post, flying the Lockheed "Winie Mae" with Harold Gatty as navigator, in 1931 flew around the world in eight days, 15 hours, and 51 minutes. Two years later the famous one-eyed pilot did it alone in seven days, using a new-type automatic pilot which allowed him to sleep while crossing the Atlantic. At the 1932 National Air Races in Cleveland, Maj. James E. Doolittle pushed the land-plane speed record to 294.28 miles an hour, flying a Granville Brothers racer.

(2) The London-Melbourne MacRobertson International Air Race of 11,300 miles was a test of the world's best planes and pilots in 1934. C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black of England won in a two-engine DeHavilland Comet. They finished the race on one engine, thus proving the reliability of a twin-engine plane. K. L. M. Royal Dutch Airlines' pilots placed second in an American-built Douglas transport, and Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn finished third in a Boeing 247 air liner.

(3) In 1936 Pan American Airways inaugurated trans-Pacific air passenger service between San Francisco and Manila. Wake and Midway islands were intermediate stops. Howard Hughes in 1938 lowered the round-the-world flight record to three days, 19 hours, and 14 minutes in a Lockheed Lodestar. Douglas (Wrong-way) Corrigan created an international chuckle when he told government officials of the United States and Ireland he mistakenly flew east over the Atlantic to Dublin, Ireland, though he intended to go to Los Angeles from New York in his range-stretched Curtiss Robin.

(4) From Germany in 1939 came a warning that a powerful air force was being built in the Third Reich. Test-pilot Fritz Wendel shattered the land-plane speed record with a mark of 468.9 m.p.h. in a military Messerschmidt, BE-109-R. The same type plane later became Germany's standard fighter. The lifetime dream of Igor Sikorsky, Americanized Russian aircraft designer, was realized in 1940, when a helicopter of his design made its first successful flight at Stratford, Conn. (Tomorrow: Flying to Victory.)
